Meet the Blogger Ella Ryder

Oxfordshire blogger, Ella Ryder is a regular here at Banbury Gateway Shopping Park and we couldn't wait to hear all about her blogging journey and get her advice on the fashion must-haves for Autumn 2018.

When did you start blogging and what's your favourite part?

I started blogging way back in 2014 during my time at the University of Nottingham. I wasn't massively interested in my degree (I did English Language & Literature), so blogging was a way for me to be creative and share my interests with others.

My favourite part has to be the friendships I've made with like-minded individuals through my social platforms. It continues to push me out of my comfort zone which I think is important to try and do regularly. I've had some great opportunities through blogging and YouTube which I wouldn't have had otherwise.

When shopping for the new season, what are your go-to stores for fashion and beauty?

I'm a big shopper and my favourites are Topshop, New Look and Primark - for the essentials, like socks!

What fashion trends are you most excited about for Autumn 2018?

I noticed a lot of animal print on the catwalks, which I'm very happy about because I needed an excuse to add some zebra or leopard print into my wardrobe. I noticed a lot of tweed too which I can see myself wearing as a skirt.

Are there any beauty trends that you're excited about for Autumn 2018?

There seems to be an emphasis on colourful eye makeup, which is unusual for the colder months. However, I always enjoy doing eye makeup on myself, so it might be fun to experiment with some graphic eyeliners!

Can you tell us what your must-have buy for this season will be?

I'd like a really good trench coat this year. Even when it's not raining, I think a trench looks very smart and stylish with a plain t-shirt, jeans and boots. No doubt I'll be buying more boots than

I have room for too!
